							Four radio talk shows were conducted on Kamuli Broadcasting Services in Kamuli and Rupiny Radio Station in Gulu District where the main focus of the talk shows was on domestic violence against women and girls and the various laws affecting rights of women and girls. There was significant participation from the communities in the program and over 47 listeners / participants called in for questions. Out of 47 callers, 17 were women and 30 were men. This may be because men sit down to listen to radio while women are doing domestic chores or very few women have access to phones and airtime compared to men. As such we will use other mechanism to reach more to more during the mobile clinics and community sensitization

TERMS OF REFERENCE

MID-TERM EVALUATION OF THE JUSTICE LAW AND ORDER SECTOR (JLOS) THIRD STRATEGIC INVESTMENT PLAN (SIP III)

1.0 INTRODUCTION

The Justice Law and Order Sector (JLOS) brings together 17 institutions responsible for administering justice, maintaining law and order and promoting the observance of human rights. JLOS is a significant innovation now in operation for over 14 years as a holistic Government approach focused on promoting the rule of law using a sector wide approach.

The Justice Law and Order Sector in Uganda is embedded within the national planning framework as a sector-wide approach (Swap) which started as an initial local based pilot and is now a collaboration that draws together close to one third of government institutions.

3.0 THE CONSULTANCY

JLOS is now in the third year of implementation of the third sector Strategic Investment Plan (SIP III) following the implementation of the first and second investment plans. The sector now wishes to assess the extent of development of a system based approach to centralised budgeting buttressed in coordination, communication and cooperation in public service delivery and development assistance in the sector. It is also important at this time to assess the level of public trust in JLOS service delivery as we strive to enhance public confidence in the judicial process and maintenance of law and order.

Based on the above background the sector wishes to procure a consultant/team of consultants to undertake a medium term evaluation of the sector SIPIII. The overarching themes of the evaluation shall include relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, impact and sustainability.

3.1 PURPOSE AND OBJECTIVES OF THE CONSULTANCY

The consultancy is intended to inform government, JLOS stakeholders and JLOS development partners on efficiency and effectiveness of JLOS service delivery and performance of programme management. It will also formulate recommendations and suggest adjustments to the SIP III and a strategy for increased influence of JLOS reforms in the attainment of the goals of Government as articulated in the National Development Plan.

The consultancy is intended to-

- 1) assess the SIPIII implementation and management since 2012/13 in order to enhance implementation of the remaining aspects of the SIP III
- 2) evaluate achievements against agreed targets (strategic objectives) both at process and implementation levels focusing on budgets, outputs, outcomes and impact as defined in the JLOS results framework.
- 3) identify critical key challenges and constraints that have impacted progress and results; and
- 4) propose concrete measures for the remaining years of the SIP III.

3.2 SCOPE OF WORK

➤ SIPIII Design and implementation

The consultant will review and-

- 1) assess the design and consistency of JLOS' programmatic and strategic documents e.g. SIP III, Results Framework, annual work plans, annual progress reports, etc. ;
- 2) Provide an assessment of the sector's performance in the period 2012/13-2014/15 measured against the results and based on the baseline as defined in the JLOS results framework
- 3) Assess the actual or likely qualitative and quantitative contribution of JLOS to national development.
- 4) Assess the relevance and effectiveness of the JLOS M&E framework and processes to the SIPIII results
- 5) Make a follow-up survey of public perception on confidence in the JLOS system, satisfaction and corruption indicators
- 6) Evaluate the extent to which the sector and its institutions have integrated cross cutting issues of gender, HIV/AIDS, disability, environment, among others.
- 7) Assess the relevance and effectiveness of annual sector reviews, the National JLOS Forum, the informal Leadership events and the mechanisms that have been put in place for policy dialogue and consultation between the Development Partners and GoU at the different levels;

➤ Programme management

The consultant will review and-

- 8) Assess the efficiency and effectiveness of JLOS programme management, financial management and the monitoring and evaluation systems at all levels.
- 9) Assess the JLOS secretariat in terms of efficiency and effectiveness.
- 10) Evaluate the performance institutional SIPs and their alignment to the sector SIPIII.
- 11) Evaluate the sector/institutional publicity strategy and civic education programmes and make proposals for increased sector visibility.

➤ Structures

The consultant will review and-

- 12) Evaluate the JLOS management structures; their composition, operations and efficacy at national and local levels.
- 13) Assess the effectiveness of the support for JLOS reform programmes at local level and measure its trickle-down effect.
- 14) Evaluate the effectiveness of JLOS subnational structures under the chain linked initiative
- 15) Assess the institutional policy and planning units at sector and institutional level planning and advise on their role, staffing, focus and fitting within the sector reform programme.
- 16) Evaluate the JLOS inter and intra sectoral linkages, coordination and feedback channels with stakeholders.

➤ Donor relations

The consultancy team will review

- 17) the financial commitments and performance of the JLOS Development Partners, the various funding modalities and the use of their funding and make proposals to enhance efficiency and effectiveness in resource acquisition, allocation and use.
- 18) assess the relevance and effectiveness of JLOS development partners in terms of political leverage, technical assistance, advocacy and policy dialogue

3.3 OUT PUT

- 1) An inception report within 3 weeks after contract signing to be presented at an inception workshop.
- 2) A process report presented at a workshop a month after the inception report.
- 3) A draft final report for consideration by the sector and development partners
- 4) A final report clearly addressing each aspect of the Terms of Reference and recommendations for consideration by the sector and development partners.
- 5) A workshop to adopt the report.
- 6) An action matrix and responsibility centres

4.0 QUALIFICATIONS AND EXPERIENCE OF THE CONSULTANT:

This assignment requires the services of an experienced Consultancy firm/ consortium of consultants with wide experience and skills in strategic management, legal reform, public expenditure management, planning as well as familiarity with the sector wide approach to justice delivery particularly the Justice Law and Order Sector. ## Foreword

The Justice Law and Order Sector (JLOS) is a sector wide approach that brings together 17 institutions responsible for administering justice maintaining law and order and promoting the observance of human rights.

Uganda's Justice Law and Order sector is a significant innovation now in operation for over 10 years as a holistic Government approach focused on improving the administration of justice, maintenance of law and order as well as the promotion, protection and respect of human rights.

The sector has over the past decade implemented the first and second investment plans and is proud to note that there is now a more developed system approach to evidence based budgeting with increased coordination, communication and cooperation in public service delivery and development assistance in the sector. The sector has also redefined the commercial and criminal justice system which is now the basis of reforms in other African countries.

Building on the above successes, JLOS has developed the third Sector Strategic Investment Plan (SIP III). SIP III is based more on the need to achieve clear results and impact aiming at the promotion of the rule of law. The sector is thus focused on increasing public confidence and trust in the justice system as well as user satisfaction in the services offered by the sector.

To drive the above impact the sector will over the next five years strengthen policy and legal frameworks for effectiveness and efficiency; enhance people's access to JLOS services and drive the country towards deeper observance of human rights while promoting institutional and individual accountability.

The Justice Law and Order Sector Third Strategic Investment Plan for the period 2012/2013 to 2016/2017 is a result of many months of preparation by the JLOS institutions that was characterized by extensive participation and consultation within the JLOS and with its stakeholders and partners. It brings continuity to the reforms that were started under the first and second Strategic Investment Plans. The primary driver for the implementation of the SIP III will be the institutional strategic investment plans that have been developed purposefully for the implementation of the SIP III. This collaborative approach emphasizes a growing awareness that the challenges within the Justice Law and Order Sector can only be successfully addressed by working together.

SIP III is therefore for and about the people in Uganda and changing their livelihood as we provide an enabling environment for investment and production.

I call upon all Ugandans, the people in Uganda and our partners in development to support the implementation of SIP III as we strive to ensure justice for all

Executive Summary

Introduction

1. The Justice Law and Order Sector (JLOS) in Uganda is rated as a huge success and regional flag bearer<sup>1</sup> in policy and strategic coordination in justice and law enforcement reforms. Embedded within the national planning framework and a rights based approach, the sector-wide approach (Swap) has grown from an initial local based pilot<sup>2</sup> into a collaboration that draws together over 15 institutions<sup>3</sup> across family, land, commercial and criminal justice spheres. Steeped in this success, the Sector intends to sustain this growth and its dividends. Within this investment plan, the Sector will multiply its efforts to transform the justice and law enforcement system into one that respects, promotes, protects and fulfills the fundamental rights stipulated in the Uganda Constitution of 1995.
2. JLOS successes in the past decade are located in law reform, institutional efficiency leading to increased responsiveness to user needs; continued progress in sector development and in the implementation of innovations to expand JLOS services to reach out to specific groups with limited access to justice. The initial sector investment (SIP I) 2000-2004 dipped into uncharted waters and SIP II consolidated the gains of this initial investment.
3. This Strategy is a living document that will continue to speak to the diverse sector institutions, development partners and non State Actors through Annual Reviews of Performance and Planning sessions. In addition and prior to the commencement of SIP III implementation, the Sector will ensure that the rubric of institutional actions, reforms and interventions cumulatively attain the goals of SIP III.
4. The development of the Strategy has benefitted from an array of views gained from a broad range of consultations including within Government- at national and regional levels; non- governmental organizations, private sector, development partners and special groups including children, prisoners etc. The process of consultations will continue through the Annual reviews of Implementation and planning to foster both vertical and downward accountability for sector results.
5. The initial section reviews the context within which the Sector operates; the achievements, prospects and lessons derived from previous performance. The second section outlines the Strategy and its elements. The third section reviews the management arrangements; presents risks and mitigation measures and the monitoring and evaluation framework. The last section presents the SIP III financing arrangements.
